

Telford Homes awarded the RoSPA President's Award

Telford Homes has received the RoSPA President's Award; in recognition of receiving a gold medal for health and safety standards for the 12th consecutive year.

The internationally recognised awards, run by the Royal Society for the Prevention of Accidents (RoSPA), promote organisations that are world-leaders in health and safety practice. Competitive awards go to the best entries in 28 industry sectors including construction, healthcare, transport and logistics, engineering, manufacturing, and education.

Telford Homes was recognised for its overarching occupational health and safety management systems, including practices such as leadership and workforce involvement.

John Fitzgerald, Managing Director: "The health and safety of employees, supply chain and customers is a core priority for us at Telford Homes and we are delighted to have been recognised by this prestigious body for the 12th year in a row. We continue to strive to improve our health and safety protocols, reviewing and updating our systems and investing in training to promote the highest standards across our business."

Alongside this, we also are celebrating a record breaking 12 month period without a RIDDOR accident and completing an accident free period of over 3 million person hours worked. Telford Homes continues to have an accident incident rate that exceeds the construction industry benchmark, which is testament to the hard work of the Telford Homes teams ensuring that the best health and safety outcomes possible are achieved.
